

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A cell search method for use in a mobile communication system, the method including: performing one or more identification steps for identifying timing and codes of oversampled input signals; and reducing the resolution of 5 the oversampled input signals before performing the one or more identification steps.